Brand Guidelines

wegetdesign.com

discover

We offer a dedicated learning phase where we integrate our team into your planning process. Through workshops, we aim to understand any issues and inefficiencies in your project and business. Based on these insights, we work on designing systems that effectively deliver results.

design

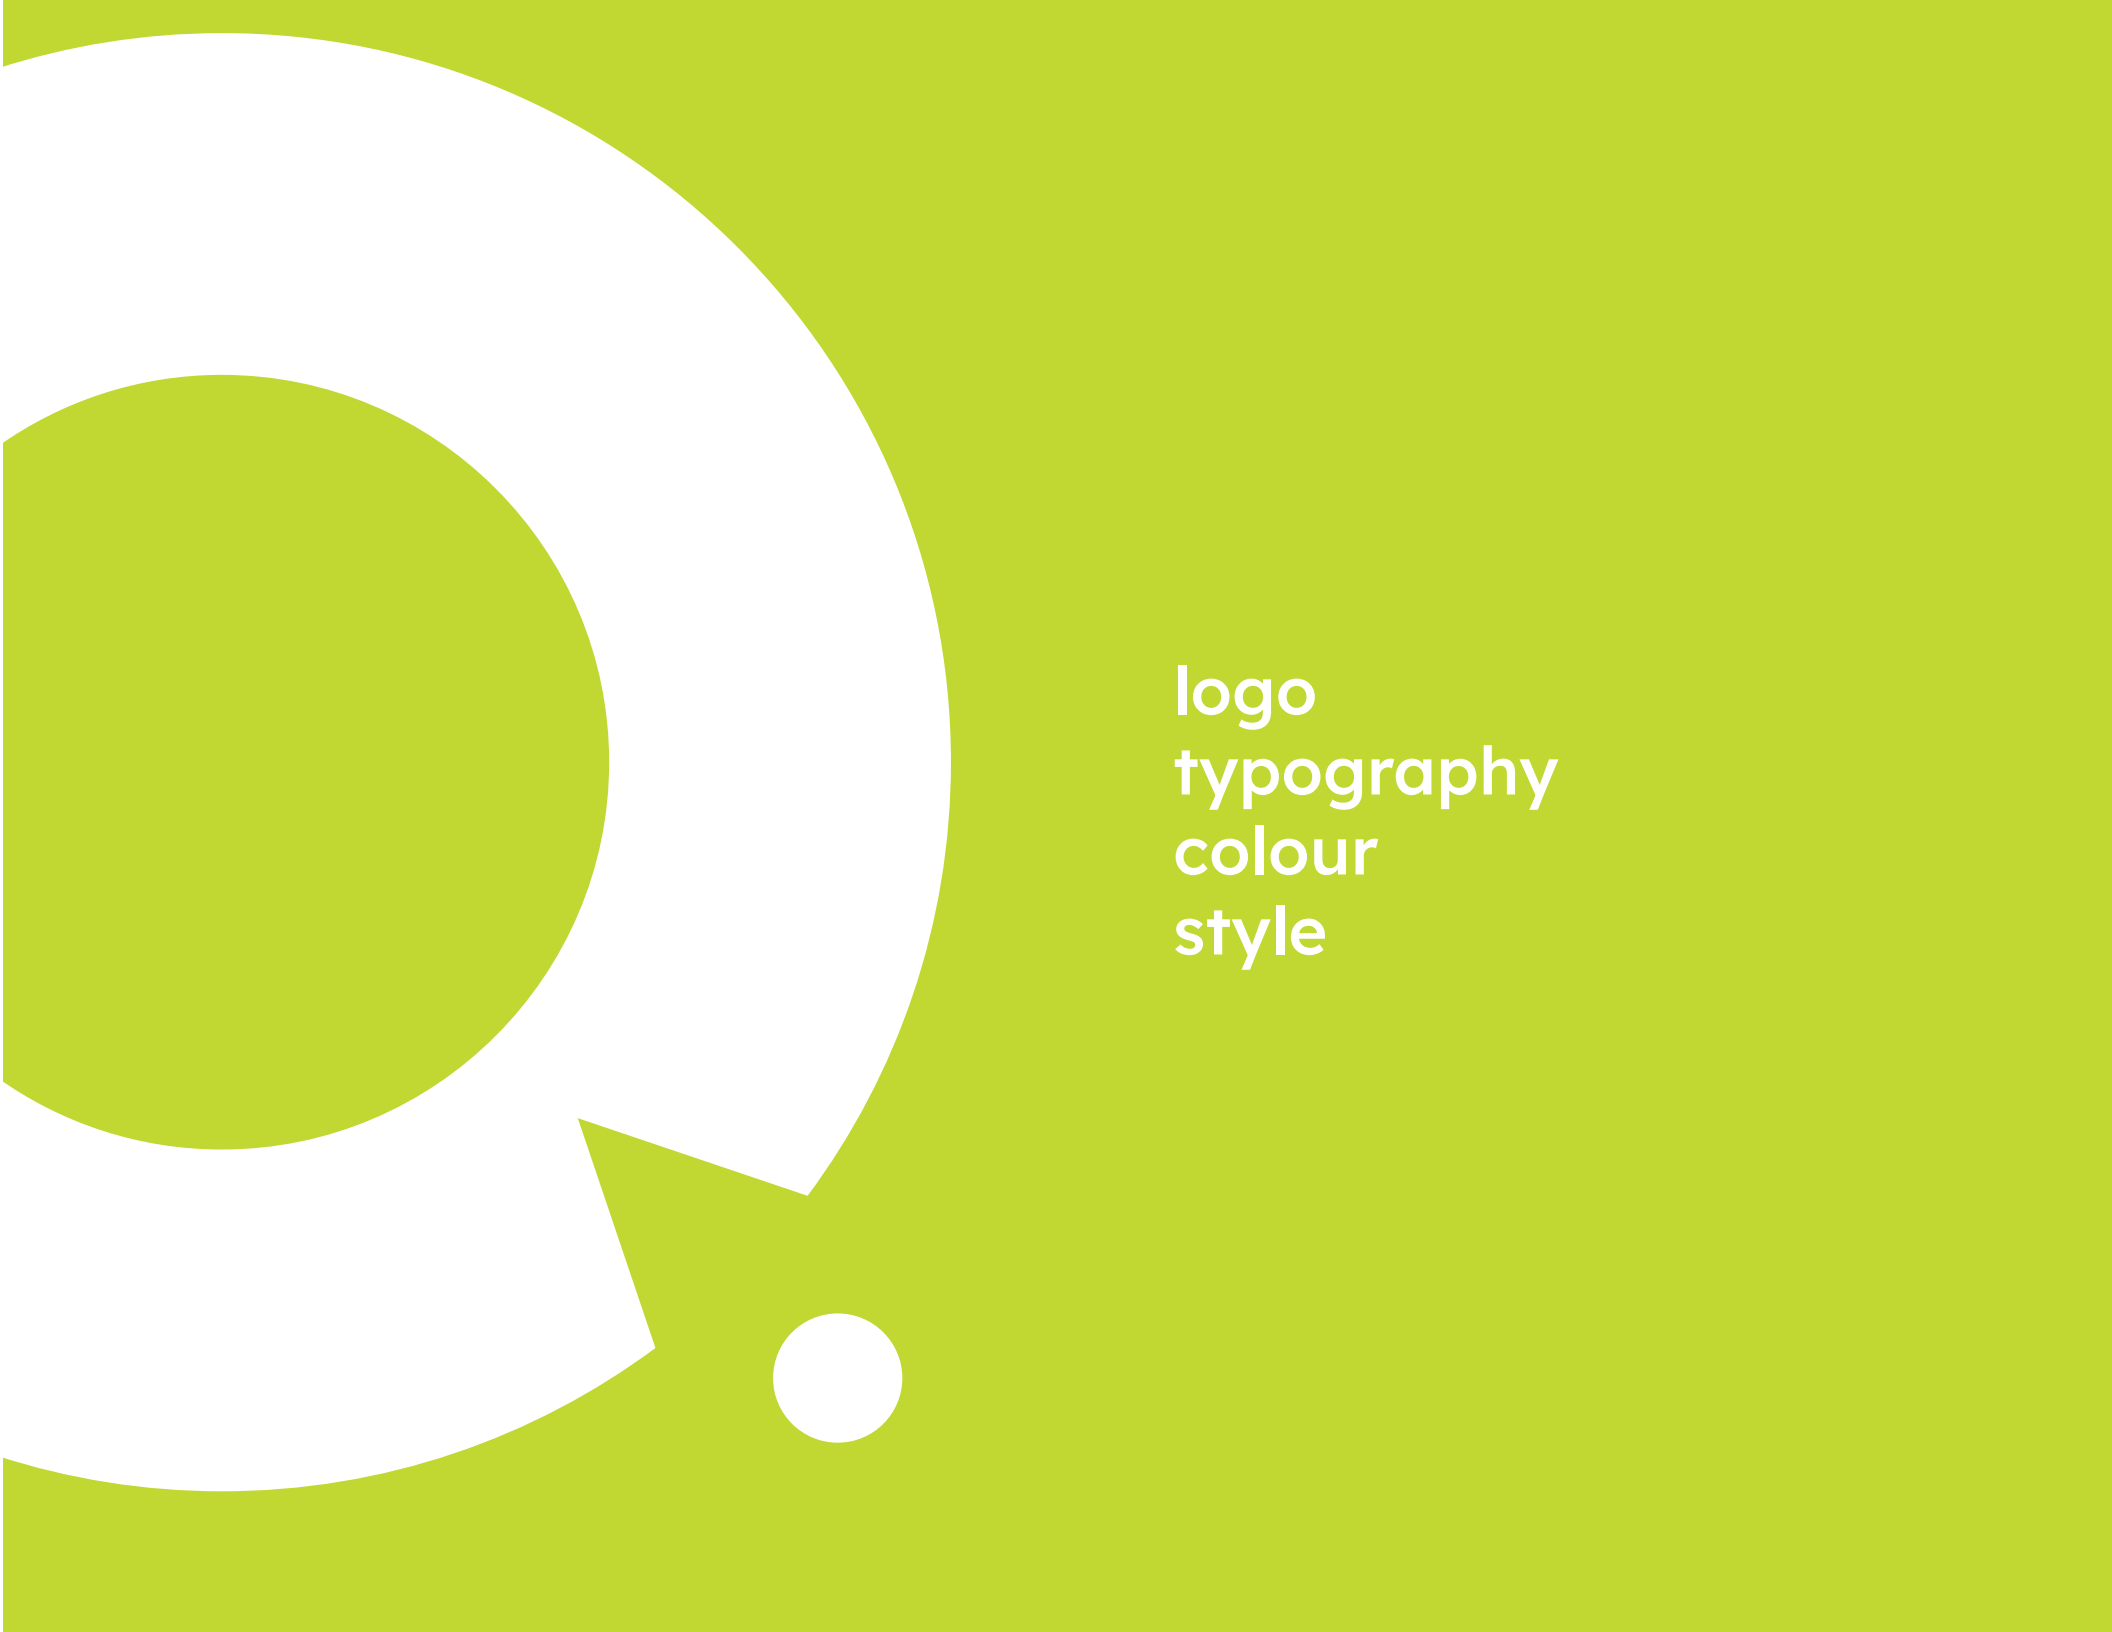

Following the discovery phase, we transition to design. We incorporate our insights into a visual design phase, collaborating with you to meet your brand requirements. The result is a bespoke set of interface designs tailored for your needs.

Using Bubble.io as our foundation, we bring your design visions to life. Together, we'll map out your database structures, sort out your style sets, and craft your application from the ground up. It's a partnership every step of the way.

the main logo icon has two main visual representations.

the circle:
this represents a team or business that wegetdesign would be aiming to help or work with.

the curser:
the curser is partially merged with the circle, it is a universal indicator that can be linked with the services wegetdesign offer. the overlap represents how we integrate and help businesses and link up with their technology.

spacing guide within logo-mark:
we use the type elements from within the main typographic structure as spacers.

lower case d acts as a divider
for the logomark and type.
lower case e acts as a divider between type and strapline.

safety area guide:
we use the lower case d as a safety spacing guide when using the logo against other graphics or borders.
